About The Atlanta First UMC Organ

A central component of much of Atlanta First's music ministry is our pipe organ, the third such instrument to exist in our 1903 sanctuary. This magnificent organ was built in 2007 by the A. E. Schlueter Pipe Organ Company of Lithonia, Georgia. The organ façade fills the arch over the chancel, where once it was open above the pipes of the previous, smaller organs. The organ, containing 5,360 pipes in 93 ranks, along with hundreds of digital MIDI instruments, is controlled by a movable five manual console. There are three divisions in the gallery antiphonal organ and six divisions in the main organ. A Trompette en Chamade (horizontal brass trumpets) is displayed under the stained glass windows of the rear gallery. The organ includes pipes from the previous Roosevelt (1895) and Reuter (1955) organs with the addition of new pipes. The antiphonal organ also includes pipes from the E. M. Skinner organ (1926), formerly in our neighbor church, The Basilica of the Sacred Heart of Jesus.
